Dog Wants to Play
By: Christine McDonnel

Dog wants to play! When? Today!

“Oh, no,” says the lamb. “See how shy I am?” The kitten and the hare and the chick refuse as well. Poor dog, will he have to play all alone?

With bright appealing pictures and a rhythmic read-aloud text, this is a perfect board book for the youngest reader.

New words and sounds your child might learn:
Dog, kitten, lamb, hare, chick, child, today, bitten, shy, scare, wild, play

Before:
- Say the title of the book, explaining that it is about a dog that likes to play, just like him.
- Say, “You like to play with (name of whom your child plays with), I wonder who the dog will find to play with.”

During:
- Talk about the pictures as you read the words on each page, “look the dog is running” and “the lamb is jumping away”.
- As you read the story, have fun with the rhythm and rhyme.
- Talk about how the dog is feeling as you read “poor dog”, and again at the end when he finds the child to play with.

After:
- Pretend to be the animals in the story together. Roll over like the dog, jump like the lamb, walk like the chick.
- Play ball together like the dog and the child did in the book. Take turns being the dog (try rolling the ball with your nose) and the child (practicing throwing and catching the ball) while playing together.

Try some of the ideas above. Continue to use your own imagination during book play, too. Have fun with the book and enjoy your time together.
